Chemical kinetics, also known as reaction kinetics, is the study of rates of chemical processes. Chemical kinetics includes investigations of how different experimental conditions can influence the speed of a chemical reaction and yield information about the reaction's mechanism and transition states, as well as the construction of mathematical models that can describe the characteristics of a ...

For a chemical reaction  $a A + b B \rightarrow p P + q Q$ , the rate equation or rate law is a mathematical expression used in chemical kinetics to link the rate of a reaction to the concentration of each reactant. It is often of the type:  $r = k[A]^m[B]^n$  For gas phase reaction the rate is often alternatively expressed by partial pressures.. In these equations  $k(T)$  is the reaction rate coefficient or rate ...

Program DynaFit [P. Kuzmic (1996) Analytical Biochemistry 237, 260-273] is used for analysis and simulation of chemical and biochemical data. Both kinetic and thermodynamic data (multiple simultaneous equilibria) and be simulated and/or fitted by using nonlinear least-squares regression.

An experiment to aid the transition from secondary school chemistry to introductory chemical engineering in higher education is described. The phenomenon of chemiluminescence observed during the oxidation of luminol has been successfully employed to study the kinetics of the reaction.

Chapter 14: Chemical Equilibrium Chemical Equilibrium What does it mean to describe a chemical reaction as being in a state of dynamic equilibrium? What are the characteristics and requirements of dynamic equilibrium? What does the equilibrium constant,  $K$  represent? How can we determine (quantitatively) the composition of a reaction mixture when it is at a
