The time has come to update this post regarding Windows Update behaviour in Windows 8 to Windows 10.. The system updates performed on regular basis by the Windows Update tool are generally a good thing, except when they force the shutdown process giving you no chances to do anything about it except save your work. We're talking about the dreadful "You're about to be signed out ...

My Raspberry Pi Model B Revision 2.0 (512MB) came this week, and like many people I opened it up, plugged it in, got it networked, configured it, got to a command prompt and said "ohmmmm, now what?" I love music and decided that getting Spotify running on my headless RasPi would be a fun first project. There are decent nuggets of information out there, but below is a simple, aggregated step ...
